COURSE-IV: CARIBBEAN FICTION AND POETRY

Course Outcome

The purpose of this paper is to introduce students to Caribbean Literature as the most vital, complex and creative branch of Commonwealth literature. In the Caribbean, the lesser availability of the ancestral past often spurs a still more intensive quest for its recovery. The writers discussed in this paper share a language, a genre, an education, an empire and its collapse. Their most significant accomplishment lies in announcing their hybrid experience, in forging aesthetic forms that embody it. The focus is on the use of literary archetypes that interweave disparate genealogies, metaphors that echo discordant cultural perspectives and genres that conjoin the disciplinary and literary forms of the colonizer with the inherited oral traditions of the colonized. The critical paradigm of hybridity is central to the analysis of Caribbean literature.

Pedagogy

Class room teaching using power point presentations, seminars, interactive sessions and recent information in communications technology.

- A personalized 'One on One' attention/interaction is a special feature of the Department wherein a small group of students clarify their doubts during tutorial classes.
