

Quarters at University of Mysore: A Report

Staff quarters are considered as one of the essential facilities to be provided by the institution. The University of Mysore has been in forefront in extending residential quarters to its administrative and academic staff to the extent possible, ever since the University was shifted to the Manasagangotri Campus way back in 1965. The quarters are distributed at three different places: the quarters at Manasagangotri Campus has more quarters among the three. The staff quarters inside the campus are a boon both for teachers and students, especially the research students. The science teachers have found it very convenient to reside in the Campus quarters as they can conduct their experiments which require round-the-clock observation/monitoring. The quarters at the University are spacious and furnished. The Campus is also well-connected by local bus transport system, and thus the needs of the family members of the staff are also catered to. There has been an increasing demand for the quarters by both academic and administrative staff.
