About the training programme:

In India's recent journey of sustainable economic growth, knowledge has been identified as one of the key drivers. In this odyssey, India has adopted a new information regime through its 'Digital India' program to support good governance, sustainable development goals empowerment its citizens. The challenges of this developmental path are inclusiveness, transparency, efficiency and productivity while balancing economic growth and sustainable development. Over the last three decades, geospatial technologies have proven to be an effective enabler to meet these challenges.

In India's evolving geospatial ecosystem, the current focus is on improving the publicness in the provision of geospatial data and information through institutional strengthening for enhancing the performance of the organizations. In this context, developing technical capacity at the individual level, remains the key factor for the success of this change process.

Capacity building initiatives of the NRDMS, Department of Science and Technology, Government of India

Recognizing the above needs, the goal of the Natural Resources Data Management System (NRDMS) program of the Department of Science and Technology, Government of India is to develop tools and techniques for integrated resource management and capacity building at various levels, for planning and implementation in a spatio-temporal context within a multilevel framework. The main goal is to build knowledge and adaptation capacity of geospatial technologies at various levels with following objectives

- Capacity building in teaching, research and development and use of geospatial technologies.
- To promote the use of open source GIS.
- To promote networking of government, academic, research and industrial organizations.

Centre for Geoinformatics Technology, University of Mysore.

University of Mysore in India has its own identity, where it is the sixth oldest University in India and first in the state of Karnataka established in the year 1916 under the Royal Highness Nalvadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar-IV (1884-1940), currently University ranked 19th in NIRF University Category with 'A' accreditation by NAAC. Whereas the host department "Centre for Geoinformatics Technology" under the Faculty of Science and Technology housed at Department of Geography, Manasagangotri Campus, University of Mysore, Mysuru which has various courses such as M.Sc in GIS, P.G. Diploma in GIS, Diploma in GIS, Diploma in Remote Sensing and Ph.D in GIS. These courses are designed as per the industry standards with frequent updation of technology and knowledge transfer with the state-of-the-art facilities available within the department and allied institutions. Center promotes internships and placements opportunities through pool campus selection with which every year 35 to 40 students are benefitted for their career building and sustainable development of the nation.
